

CREATING THE IDEAL MEETING ENVIRONMENT

PURPOSES & BENEFITS

Setting the stage for creative, collaborative work from the beginning includes creating the ideal meeting environment. The use of relevant environment themes helps to establish the right tone for the work to be accomplished in a non-threatening and creative setting, as well as to set the stage for helping a group to gather and collectively understand their purpose. The environment also serves as a distraction from anxiety as a person enters the room, which is helpful to gathering. This tool provides:

- Theme ideas
- The theme-related meaning(s)
- The theme-related props ideas

HOW TO USE THIS TOOL

This document provides example ideas of setting up a meeting environment, which is an important component of bringing a collaborative group together. This tool can also be useful when convening stakeholders for community organizing strategic planning in Step 3 – Put Together An Informed Plan.

The most important thing to remember when convening a group around a theme is to match the theme to the work to be accomplished and to the audience. Also useful are tactile objects, such as themed toys, play-dough, pipe cleaners, etc., as such objects can help to “shift” participants out of usual ways of thinking and stimulate creativity. In addition, having the right facilitation supplies, such as flipcharts, markers, etc. will help to ensure that a meeting runs smoothly and efficiently, with shared input and collective understanding.

The ideas provided don’t necessarily have to cost a great deal of money to implement either. The thrift store, the yard sale, and donations to the shelter can be good resources. Be creative and have fun!
